Ontario Drivers To Go Like 60

TORONTO (CP)—The speed limit on many Ontario highways will be raised to 60 miles an hour within the next two months, Highways Minister Cass said Wednesday. The new limit will apply on all controlled-access highways and on certain two-lane roads, he said.

Legless Motorist Jailed as Drunk

VANCOUVER (CP)—Robert Francis Joseph Murray, 35, a legless Vancouver motorist was sentenced to seven days in jail Wednesday by Magistrate Lorne Jackson for drunk driving. Murray was arrested Friday following a $2,100, two-car collision.

Daylight Saving Harmful to Pupils

NEW WESTMINSTER (CP)—The New Westminster Elementary Teachers' Association Wednesday told the royal commission on education that daylight saving time has "detrimental effects" on pupils. Miss Janet E. Work said: "It means a loss of sleep for younger children. They're used to starting school at a certain time. For that first hour in the morning they sit and look at you half in a daze. Their concentration is gone. "With primary youngsters we feel the year is ended at the end of April and we must get all our work done by then."

OTTAWA (CP) — The federal cabinet has averted the threatened Dec. 1 general rail strike by letting the railways have a freight rate increase amounting to some $60,000,000 a year. After the award railway officials and union negotiators for some 130,000 non-operating railway workers signed a two-year contract worth about $50,000,000 and the unions promptly withdrew their threat of a rail strike next Monday.

The cabinet refused Wednesday to allow an appeal against a 17-per-cent increase filed by eight provinces, thus giving the railways enough money to sign the union agreements. The decision was announced by Acting Prime Minister Green five days from the strike.

deadline, coupled with a warning that this may be the last time the cabinet will permit a freight rate boost before the railways actually sign a contract.

He also announced that the federal government will investigate railway problems generally.

An immediate objective would be to remove "discrimination" in freight rates, one of the main complaints of the eight appealing provinces, all except Ontario and Quebec.

Mr. Green also said the government does not intend to pay for wage increases out of the federal treasury.

Victoria's Ambassadors to Canada

Some of the fictitious characters from this so-called "little bit of olde England" will ride the Victoria float in the Grey Cup parade in Vancouver Saturday, including Col. Blimp (Jerry Gosley) in his old regimental scarf, a gay blade cricketer (Al Denoni),

Boisterous Hour At Victoria College

By ALEC MERRIMAN

Premier Bennett, in his best fighting mood, faced a hostile audience of more than 600 at Victoria College yesterday, parried question for question with the young students, and came out a 50 per cent winner.

The students booed, jeered, hissed and stamped their feet at the premier and even hanged him in effigy from the balcony auditorium while he was speaking, but the ever-smiling premier had half the audience applauding, if only half-heartedly, by the time he finished his talk. Mood of the students changed towards the end of his speech and question period when the premier gave them what amounted to a promise of a degree-granting university in Victoria within five years.

The question asked was whether Victoria College would get all the money it needs ... and if Mr. Bennett favored the granting of a degree-granting college for Victoria within five years.

Applause Shakes Rafters

When the premier answered "yes," the applause shook the rafters of the college auditorium which was filled to standing capacity, with students even standing behind the curtains on the platform. After hearing former B.C. Power Commission general manager H. Lee Briggs attack the premier and Social Credit leaders Tuesday at noon the students were well primed for the premier's talk.

Signs had been prepared and were hung on auditorium walls and from the balcony.

One sign which stretched nearly the complete length of the balcony read: "You Can Fool Some of the People Some of the Time, But Not All the People All the Time."

Other signs: "It's Winter in Victoria, but it's Sommers in Oakalla, Down with Bennett." "The Answer to the Bennett Farce is an Election. What Else?" "The Crimes of Bennett—Sommers, BCPC, Wenner-Gren." "One sign was made in the form of an election ballot and listed as candidates "Chaos ... Graft ... Election," with an X placed after election.

The effigy which had earlier been hanged on a tree was brought into the auditorium before the premier arrived and hung over the balcony. Student Council president Ronald Cooke stepped to the microphone and said: "May I suggest something. If you want that thing to be effective give Mr. Bennett a chance for his speech and then throw it over when he is finished."

The students withdrew it, but they couldn't wait until the premier had finished speaking. They threw it over the balcony railing during the question period. Premier Bennett carried on talking and gave no indication he had seen it.

'Hang Down Your Head'

On one arm of the effigy was written "Sommers" and on the other "Wenner-Gren." The main sign on the body of the effigy read "Hang Down Your Head ... Bennett."

Attorney-General Robert Bonner, who accompanied the premier to the meeting, got even a rougher time of it than the premier.

When Mr. Bennett asked Mr. Bonner to take over during the question period, because the premier had become hoarse, the students shouted: "We don't want Bonner ... Why not bring Sommers."

"We don't want to hear all this ... what about our questions?" the students shouted as Mr. Bonner started to outline the origin and makeup of the B.C. Power Commission in a legal tone which contrasted greatly to the premier's dynamic address.

"I don't understand why there should be a reluctance to hear all this," Mr. Bonner asked.

Challenged as to whether he would debate with Mr. Briggs at Victoria College, the premier

Bingo Take Spreads Cheer

Proceeds from next Monday night's Moose bingo games will be turned over to the Colonist 500 Christmas Fund to provide a little cash to buy much-needed extras at Christmas for Greater Victoria's 500 most needy family groups. The games start at 8 p.m. in the Moose Hall at 512-514 Fort Street, and there will be 20 games plus competitions for $60 and $50 jackpots.

Sponsoring the games are the Loyal Order of Moose 1390 and Chapter 25 of the Women of the Moose.

Games are held every Monday night, but next Monday will be the big night for the 500 Christmas Fund and the bingo committee has promised several surprises.

Contributions to the fund reached $874.12 yesterday.

Donations are deductible for income tax purposes and should be mailed to The 500 Christmas Fund, 2631 Douglas Street, or taken to the Colonist office at the same address, or to the downtown business office at 1215 Broad Street.

Wins Applause

"Anytime that I am around, and was greeted with cheers.

But he was booed when he referred to Mr. Briggs' day-by-day release of press statements and said: "He is more in the show business than they are in Hollywood."

THREE CHEERS

That statement brought three cheers and a "tiger" from the balcony with the shout "That is for Briggs."

"What about Sommers?" was a call that punctuated the entire meeting.

Asked in a written question why the government did not resign after Sommers was convicted of taking bribes, Mr. Bennett said: "Because in my opinion this is the most honest government B.C. has ever had."

"BOO, HISS, OH"

"Boo, Boo, Hiss, Hiss, Hiss, Oh! Oh! Oh!" the students chorused.

The premier refused to give any indication when a general election might be called.

To a question obviously referring to Highway Minister Gagliardi's recent ticket for speeding, asking if the premier thought people who were caught speeding should be dealt with severely, the premier answered "Yes," and received a big hand.

WINS APPLAUSE

Mr. Bennett won applause when he said "I don't have to answer someone else's opinions," when asked what he thought about charges that Mr. Briggs was emotionally disturbed.

But he ran into trouble when he started off to answer a question: "Before we were the government..."

"Then was the good old days," shouted a heckler.

MORE ROADS

"Yes, the good old days, when Vancouver Island didn't have one foot of good road. We built more roads in six years than all the other parties... Liberals, Conservatives... did in 94 years," the premier said.

When Mr. Bennett picked up some of the written questions and then laid them down the students cried: "Answer... Answer them..."

LOOK INTO THAT

The premier assured the students that if the Shrum royal commission "wants to investigate if Wenner-Gren developments and the B.C. Electric adversely affects the B.C. Power Commission, the terms of reference are wide enough to look into that."

Mr. Bennett referred to "a political plot" and said "they will never break this movement, my friends."

"Oh! Oh! Oh!" the students shouted back. "Call an election."

Mr. Bennett then went on to explain there had been so many elections the people were getting fed up with them.

"Stop wasting time," the students shouted.

Mr. Bennett referred to early newspaper charges about his $28,000,000 refinancing plan and a published apology in a Vancouver newspaper. "A lot of other people are goofing on this issue," the premier said.

"You are... About four years ago we made one big goof," one of the students shouted back.

"If we didn't have a story to tell, I wouldn't be here today," the premier said.

"Fairy tales," came a shout from the audience.

FAIRY TALES

"You have been hearing some fairy tales," the premier said.

At one point, when telling the students that the B.C.P.C. had looked into the Peace River development and that two years ago had advised the water rights branch the commission was not interested in it, the premier said: "If that is not true, I will resign as premier, my friends."

That statement was greeted with cheers and foot stamping.

RUNNING AWAY

Premier Bennett accused Mr. Briggs of "running away from his responsibility as general manager of the power commission," and was booed.

"What about Arizona?" a couple of students shouted.

The premier was holidaying in Arizona at the time of the Sommers conviction.

"Everybody in this province can have a holiday. When the premier goes away everybody wants him," Mr. Bennett said.

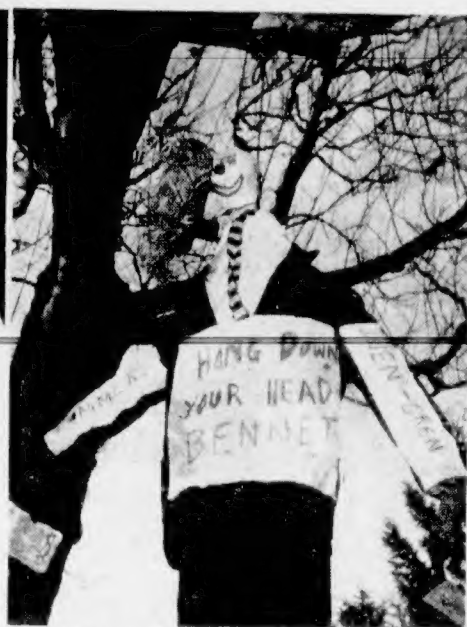

The premier started to explain his budget but was stopped when a student shouted:

"Was Sommers the accountant?"

THIS IS TRUTH

"This is the truth," Mr. Bennett said.

"Oh! Oh! Oh!" the audience cried.

Effigy Dangles from Tree

Long before Premier Bennett arrived at Victoria College to make a noon speech, students were warmed up for a stormy meeting. They hanged the premier in effigy from a tree in the college grounds in the morning and again, from a balcony, as he was speaking. — (Colonist photos by Jim Ryan.)

One student, Russell Chambers, jumped to the platform to study the budget at the premier's invitation. Only a handful admitted they had ever read a budget.

"I am here to state the facts as I know them. If you set up a committee, I would be glad to see you in my office at any time to make any information available," Premier Bennett told the students.

At the conclusion of his speech the premier waved to the students in much the same manner as a prize-fighter and he received more applause than boos, although both were still fairly well distributed.

A-Plane Fire Kills Pilot

LAKE CHARLES, La. (AP)—The commander of a B-47 bomber carrying a nuclear weapon was killed Wednesday and the navigator injured when an explosion started a fire on the aircraft at nearby Chennault Air Force Base.

The fire apparently started when a rocket assist takeoff bottle exploded. The explosion came while the plane was parked on the flight line. The co-pilot was unhurt. The blaze aboard the plane was extinguished a few minutes after the explosion.

Strategic Air Command at Washington confirmed the plane was carrying a nuclear weapon, but said there was no danger from explosion or radiation.

Treat Public Fairly

IF amalgamation is a good thing for Victoria and Saanich—and we are firmly convinced that it is—it is entitled to steady, considerate, reasoning discussion and majority decision at the hands of the ratepayers of both areas.

It would be idle to put the December referendum in Saanich or Victoria under the open and shut vote required under Section 25 of the Municipal Act. There is no plan ready. The ratepayers are only inquiring into principles now. No one can say what taxes, services or benefits would be under an agreement that has not come into existence yet.

To vote yes or no under Section 25 of the statute would indeed be the "sudden death" it has been labelled. If Reeve George Chatterton wants to do that there is no quicker road to such a result.

Mayor Scurrah, in the city, has seen that. Victoria originally was willing to put the referendum under Section 25, but it found out its mistake. All that could do would be to give a straw vote on a nebulous union in blank, with none of its terms written—and the dangerous provision that the ratepayers need not be consulted if the two councils later got together on a definite, detailed agreement.

Mayor Scurrah says he will ask consideration from his council for using Section 210 of the statute instead. This would be a vote on the principle only; and also would guarantee the ratepayers their final vote before any union could go into effect.

It would be absurd for Saanich to use Section 25 and the City Section 210 in the coming referendums. An affirmative vote under Section 25 would approve a plan which simply does not exist at the moment. A negative vote would kill discussion and all possibility of concurrence on amalgamation for some years to come. We do not believe that this is what Saanich residents wish to do with the question.

If amalgamation is worth thought it necessitates a full, complete and painstaking review of the whole case, followed by negotiated agreement—which in turn would be futile without full study and then approval by the ratepayers.

Now, before it is too late, we appeal to both councils to put the December referendum uniformly under Section 210 of the Municipal Act. That would give a public mandate for further study of amalgamation, without the surrender of a single right on the part of any ratepayer in the City or Saanich. To put opposing referendums now would be throwing the issue out of the window. Nothing whatever can be settled in that way. The public must be treated fairly. It is their property which is administered in trust.

Tape Recordings in Court

WHAT is believed to be a precedent in Canadian jurisprudence was established in the supreme court in Calgary recently when a tape recording was admitted as evidence. There is nothing new about this method of recording conversations and other sounds which could be relevant to judicial trials, but for some reason not clear to the lay mind it has not hitherto been acceptable to the courts. There appears to have been much the same objection to tape recordings as to wire tapping, which is a different kettle of fish altogether.

The recording of sound on tape has been brought to a high stage of perfection, and the courts would be turning their backs to technological progress if they continued to reject the aid such records are capable of rendering. By this means a much more accurate record of a conversation could be given in many cases than would ever be possible through recourse to memory or notes. Stenographic transcriptions cannot convey shades of meaning; yet inflections of voice sometimes are as important as the words spoken. Stenographers also may have their good and bad days and thus are prone to errors of which a tape recorder in perfect working condition is incapable. By the use of more than one microphone also the receptive range of the tape can be made much wider than that of the human ear.

Situations may be foreseen in which a tape record might contain more than a jury should be allowed to hear—for example, statements or confessions not admissible under the rules. Subject to all necessary limitations, however, the acceptance of such virtually infallible records, supported by sworn evidence as to the circumstances in which they were made, would appear to be in the interest of justice.

It is time, as newspapermen and four-minute-milers know well, that is the implacable opponent. But it can consume car drivers as well. These have had rides as wild as ever a Dick Turpin contemplated. One such odyssey that clings to mind is the memorable race across desert and sagebrush country related in, I think, "Light of the Western Stars." It is many years since my blood beat in company with this western yarn and the details are dim except that if the driver didn't arrive before the faithful hour an innocent man would be shot. All through the years the echo of that motor engine has sounded in vague refrain.

The Canadian Classic

VANCOUVER must bless the Empire Games of four years ago, for without the stadium these left in their wake there would be no Grey Cup to enliven its civic scene on Saturday afternoon. Of the status of this annual football encounter there can be no mistake. It has taken on the patina of a Wembley cup final or a Yankee Stadium world series, but with distinctly Canadian overtones. And, as with a royal visit or a centennial celebration, the enthusiasm it engenders exceeds the substance of the occasion—in this instance a sporting event.

In the result, persons who do not know what a quarterback does, or his difference from a lineman or a halfback, are caught up in the hoopla whose only merit is the aftermath that disturbs local police when the game is over. That is Vancouver's worry, however, and from across the strait a Victorian observer can view the excitement with some aplomb.

It is somewhat remarkable that the Grey Cup, for long a trophy of secondary interest, has assumed such a dominant position in Canadian sport. It has become a classic which outshines even the national hockey playoffs, perhaps because of the sudden-death nature of the encounter but also perhaps because it answers the need for spectacular display. Inherent in the human spirit is the urge to indulge in pageantry and special exuberance, and the parades, floats and accompanying merriment of the Grey Cup answers the purpose.

In addition this football classic reflects the vigorous and healthy rivalry between the east and west divisions of Canada. It pits the champions of each region in one win-or-lose climax to the fall football season. Thus it is that Victorians will flock to Empire Stadium or stay at home glued to TV sets strung to nervous support of a club whose home is 1,500 miles away. It is Hamilton, Ontario, and Winnipeg, Manitoba, which will match brawn and skill in Vancouver on Saturday, but all Canada will be drawn into the arena.

Interpreting the News

Merger Affects Numbers

By ED SIMON

Canadian Press Staff Writer

THE accidents of history, which have always played a decisive role in the development of the Commonwealth, appear to be presenting it with its first major transfusion of French-speaking citizens since the fall of New France 200 years ago.

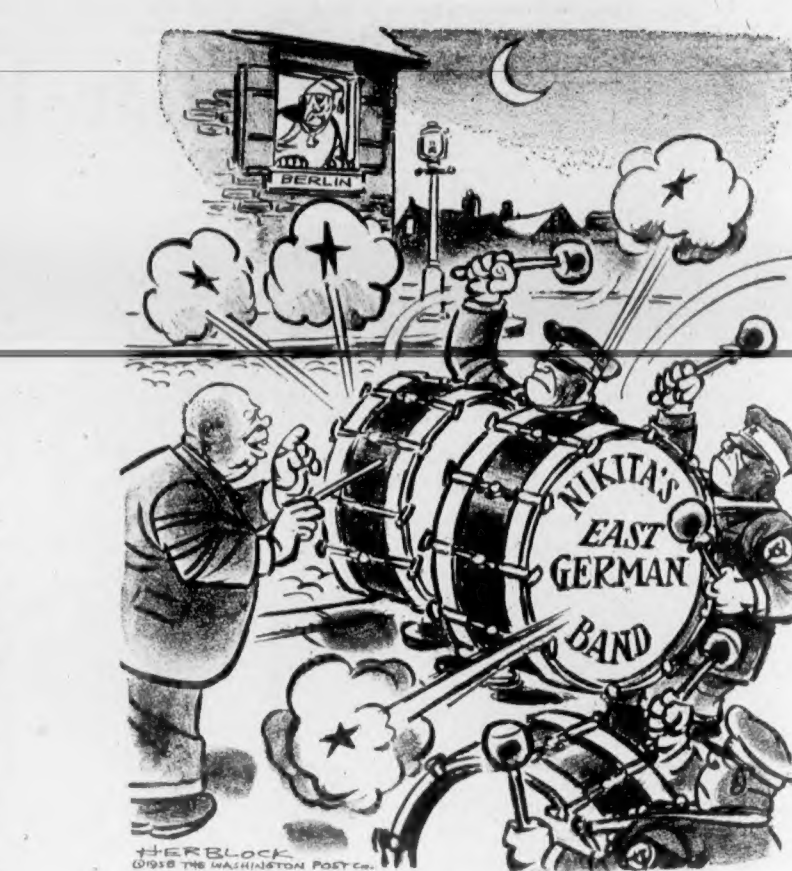

The unexpected announcement of the merger of Ghana and the newly-independent state of Guinea has virtually forced the hand of Ghana's Commonwealth partners. They are confronted with the choice of admitting Prime Minister Nkrumah's new partner to membership or forcing Nkrumah out of the club.

While the actual merger awaits one or two constitutional steps, the formal declaration of Guinea's independence by her former French colonial masters and ratification of the agreement by the parliaments of Ghana and Guinea can be taken as a foregone conclusion.

The question remains whether the reservations entertained by some Commonwealth members as to the unprecedented admission of a state with no previous British ties are likely to outweigh the probable consequences of refusal. Such reservations undoubtedly exist.

From the economic standpoint, Guinea's 2,500,000 citizens have been cast onto France's doorstep with few prospects of independent survival. Although Ghana's 4,000,000 residents are in a considerably better state, they, too, are dependent on outside aid.

Thinking Aloud

Gerald Waring

"... of shoes—and ships—and sailing wax—of cabbages and kings."

By TOM TAYLOR

A CAR is not the living thing that a horse is but when it starts into motion it has an affinity with its driver. On occasion too a car seems to know who is at the wheel, just as a horse knows who is on its back. And if the cause is desperate who knows but that the engine responds with sympathetic rhythm and speed. Many a Victorian racing up island to catch a ferry must think so.

In a race, against time or other circumstance, one doubts that a mechanical speed can quite match the interest the pulsating thrill of horse-flesh stretched to gallant endeavour. The story of Dick Turpin and his wild ride to York, for instance, is like to catch the imagination, although it is Black Bess and not the highwayman that is immortal. In fact, I believe, it was another miscreant and not Turpin who covered the miles against the tick of the clock in order to establish an alibi.

It is time, as newspapermen and four-minute-milers know well, that is the implacable opponent. But it can consume car drivers as well. These have had rides as wild as ever a Dick Turpin contemplated. One such odyssey that clings to mind is the memorable race across desert and sagebrush country related in, I think, "Light of the Western Stars." It is many years since my blood beat in company with this western yarn and the details are dim except that if the driver didn't arrive before the faithful hour an innocent man would be shot. All through the years the echo of that motor engine has sounded in vague refrain.

Another epic car journey against odds calculated to keep the reader upright in his chair—who could lounge idly when villains are pursuing Lochinvar and his young lady companion—is to be found in "The Island of Sheep," a volume into which I dipped again the other evening. Here is no ride against time, for it is a haven in a sheltered valley and not the position of the hour hand that is the goal. The Lochinvar is a middle-aged businessman summoned out of his accustomed lethargy to rescue a maiden in distress; the young lady is a blonde schoolgirl who, a friend assures us, will be a raving beauty when she grows up; and the pursuers are an assortment of rascals who will bump off Lochinvar and kidnap the girl—her father has pots of money—if their Stutz catches up with Lochinvar's Bentley. Fine ingredients, you will agree, for a hair-raising episode.

The villains are foiled, naturally, and later on they take the bumps for this is only a passing thrust in a game of bold and bad measures, but not before the reader's scalp stiffens in suspense and he offers a prayer that the Bentley's engine will play fair and not double-cross the raving beauty of the future. And how well it rises to the occasion as Lochinvar doubles and re-doubles his tracks to cloud the scent, never missing a piston stroke. Never was centaur more one than this driver and his car.

If some night you are tired of the television screen read this racy tale of adventure; it will excite you no end.

Reports from Ottawa

IF I were laying money on the line, I'd bet that within a year we'll have airline competition on at least one or two east-west runs. This in spite of press reports that Canadian Pacific Airlines put up a pretty weak case in its application to the Air Transport Board for a franchise to compete with Trans-Canada Airlines. Those reports were based, I suspect, on misunderstanding of CPA's tactics in the five-week-long hearings just concluded. CPA deliberately pulled its punches in what would normally be its main presentation, its "evidence in chief." It put in no more than was required to establish its case. Then TCA replied with a full broadside of rebuttal evidence.

It was only then that CPA produced its main evidence, designed to shoot down TCA assertions that the government-owned airline would lose $8,000,000 the first year of competition with CPA, and more in subsequent years. CPA's case was what lawyers call a rebuttal case—but after weeks of testimony, public interest in the fight was by then at low ebb. Except among those especially interested, CPA's strong finish probably went largely unnoticed.

In the final days of the hearing, CPA compared TCA's operations with those of three U.S. airlines reputedly comparable in size, equipment, traffic, routes, weather conditions and other factors. And it argued that the statistics on operations of Delta, Braniff and Northwest airlines proved that TCA is an inefficient, high-cost operation. This, CPA said, is because TCA is a monopoly position.

CPA alleged that TCA has 3,000 more employees than it would need if it operated as efficiently as the U.S. lines.

It also charged that in effect TCA rigged its books to enable it to put on a poor mouth. It alleged that costs and expenses were charged to TCA's Toronto-Montreal-New York services which in fact were not properly chargeable to these services, making it appear that TCA was losing money on these services.

In essence, CPA's case is that competition will result in better and more frequent service, that it will force TCA to operate more efficiently, that cost savings forced on TCA by competition will enable TCA to compete successfully without incurring deficits, all to the benefit of both producers and consumers in the air travel business.

TCA contends there's not enough business for two airlines; that competition would result in TCA operating losses which the taxpayers would have to make up, that CPA only wants to skim the cream of the business, and that TCA's present adequate and efficient service is being improved, in accordance with carefully considered long-range plans, to meet future increased demands on the national air service.

The ATB, which five years ago looked favorably on a CPA application for a franchise to compete with TCA on transcontinental air freight runs, only to have the Liberal government over-ride it on policy grounds, knows that the Conservative government is well disposed in principle towards competition.

The ATB will make its recommendation to the cabinet, but it will be the cabinet which will decide whether to risk TCA's surpluses in even a restricted competitive market; whether the national interest would be better served by substituting a TCA-CPA "duopoly" for the present TCA monopoly.

The Packsack

of GREGORY CLARK

AMONG the stylishly modern shops in one of the new spacious suburban shopping centres is one bearing the inscription: "Tonsorialist."

It's a barber shop. Just a nice up-to-date barber shop, with the barbers sitting placidly, like wallflowers, waiting.

Tonsorialist is one of those fancy words intended to dignify an old and honorable trade, as mortician is supposed to dignify the old and honorable trade of undertaker. It comes from the Latin word, tonsor, which means barber. In building up the English language out of all the bits and pieces of Latin, Greek, French, German, Norse and many others that became available to our good old-world pollacking ancestors, they wanted a word meaning "pertaining to a barber or his work." So they took the Latin word for barber, tonsor, and added "ial"; and presto, they had tonsorial, a good English word, eh?

Now, several hundred years later and some thousands of years later than the Latins who used tonsor, we want a fancy word for barber to embellish a shopping plaza. So we take the meaning "pertaining to a barber or his work," stick "ist" on the end of it, and get tonsorialist.

Latin is famous as a language for the maximum of meaning with the minimum of sound. English is slowly becoming famous as a language for the minimum of meaning with the maximum of sound.

If a barber shop really wants to be intellectual, why not go right back to the starting point, and call itself Tonsor?

'The Greatest'

THE point has been reached, which everyone anticipated it would, that radio and TV announcers, particularly the latter, have exhausted their knowledge of flowery adjectives to use when introducing their performers. Now, the majority of them have settled for one—"the greatest."

No matter whether he or she is a singer, dancer, comedian, acrobat or any other kind of artist, he or she is referred to as "the greatest."

Just how nearly each and everyone can be "the greatest," is a little difficult to imagine.

Bargain Sale

Airliners For a Song

(From the British Aircraft Society)

A HUGE bargain sale without queues, or, indeed, any customers may be on the way. The sellers who stand to lose a great deal of money are the world's airlines—unless a plan devised by Napier, the aero-engine manufacturer, is adopted. The commodity is the large piston-engined airliners of which there are more than 3,500 in service today.

Other piston-engined types will be up for sale to make way for new, smooth-flying, fast, turbine-powered aircraft without which no large airline will be able to maintain its competitive position.

The problem is twofold. Firstly, passengers will choose the faster, more comfortable jet or turboprop aircraft if offered the choice of piston or turbine power. Secondly, the greatly increased work capacity of the turbine airliner—nearly twice the passenger load and twice the speed—may mean that there will soon be an excess carrying capacity on the world's air routes unless older piston aircraft are "retired."

Earlier in the year, the International Civil Aviation Organization estimated—on the assumption that air traffic will continue to increase at an average annual rate of 15 per cent—that there will be an excess of potential capacity of about 2,100,000 ton miles by 1960 and 1,600,000 ton miles in 1961. The International Air Transport Association's reply to this was that ICAO had not allowed for "disposal of aircraft by retirement or sale" between now and the dates specified.

It seems certain that considerable numbers of piston airliners will be "retired." But not all of them. There will be two main buyers of the remainder, many of which will be relatively new. Firstly, those airlines which will have to buy a certain number to bridge the gap until their turbine equipment is available; and secondly, small, mainly independent operators which will find jet and turboprop equipment too expensive, at present anyway.

These, then, are the likely buyers. But what prices will the sellers, the bigger airlines, get for their piston aircraft? One American airline executive is quoted as saying gloomily "I can see the day coming when we shall be virtually giving them away." At the beginning of 1957, a used Constellation or DC-6 fetched $1,400,000, but by mid-1958 prices had been halved and buyers were getting more and more difficult to find as these aircraft came on the market. Take the case of two of the many U.S. airlines operating DC-7s, American Airlines and United Airlines. The former plan to dispose of all 60 aircraft and the latter 36 by 1961. These cases are typical, and there are more than 200 DC-7s in service in the U.S. alone.

Meanwhile the second-hand market threatens to reach saturation point. The prospect of a $2,000,000 airliner selling for about $150,000 is not too far distant, many airline chiefs think. Aviation Week reports that, in the United States, plans are already being prepared to prevent complete saturation. Measures considered include making piston airliners available gradually, thus keeping supply and demand roughly equal; finding new foreign markets and facilitating arrangements for payment, and encouraging airlines to keep piston aircraft in use (for charter flights, cargo, low-priority mail, etc.) after they have been replaced by jet or turboprop equipment.

Napier's solution to the problem is to re-engine piston airliners which are to continue in service with Eland turboprop engines. This would give a new lease of life to, say, a three-year-old DC-7, and make it competitive in the jet age. Cost of conversion would be about $1,000,000 for a DC-7, Super Constellation or DC-6, while for a twin-engine type such as a Convair 340, it would amount to about $400,000.

Napier claims that operating costs would be reduced by between 5 and 10 per cent due to the economy of the turboprop engine, and at least one American airline manufacturer, Douglas, has expressed its willingness to co-operate once there is an assured, sizeable market.

If the prices of piston airliners continue to fall, it is not impossible that a relatively new four-engine airliner of this type could be bought, re-engined with Elands and put into service for around $1,100,000, while a twin-engine aircraft could be bought and rejuvenated for about $500,000 or less.

Already one airline, R.E.A.L. of Brazil, and the Canadian government have ordered the conversion to Eland power of a number of Convairs. Design studies for the conversion of other types are also available.

"This is the truth," Premier Bennett tells student Russell Chambers, brandishing a copy of the budget.

said "anytime that I am around," and was greeted with cheers.

But he was booed when he referred to Mr. Briggs' day-by-day release of press statements and said: "He is more in the show business than they are in Hollywood."

"What about Sommers?" was a call that punctuated the entire meeting.

Asked in a written question why the government did not resign after Sommers was convicted of taking bribes, Mr. Bennett said: "Because in my opinion this is the most honest government B.C. has ever had."

"BOO, HISS, OH!"

"Too, too, too, hiss, hiss, hiss, Oh! Oh! Oh!" the students chorused.

The premier refused to give any indication when a general election might be called.

To a question, obviously referring to Highway Minister Gagliardi's recent ticket for speeding, asking if the premier thought people who were caught speeding should be dealt with severely, the premier answered "yes," and received a big hand.

WINS APPLAUSE

Mr. Bennett won applause when he said "I don't have to answer someone else's opinions," when asked what he thought about charges that Mr. Briggs was emotionally disturbed.

But he ran into trouble when he started off to answer a question: "Before we were the government..."

"There was the good old days," shouted a heckler.

MORE ROADS

"Yes, the good old days, when Vancouver Island didn't have one foot of good road. We built more roads in six years than all the other parties... Liberals, Conservatives... did in 94 years," the premier said.

When Mr. Bennett picked up some of the written questions and then laid them down the students cried: "Answer... Answer them..."

LOOK INTO THAT

The premier assured the students that if the Shrum royal commission "wants to investigate if Wenner-Gren developments and the B.C. Electric adversely affects the B.C. Power Commission, the terms of reference are wide enough to look into that."

Mr. Bennett referred to "a political plot" and said "they will never break this movement, my friends."

"Oh! Oh! Oh!" the students shouted back. "Call an election!"

Mr. Bennett then went on to explain there had been so many elections the people were getting fed up with them.

"Stop wasting time," the students shouted.

Mr. Bennett referred to early newspaper charges about his $28,000,000 refinancing plan and a published apology in a Vancouver newspaper. "A lot of other people are goofing on this issue," the premier said.

"You are... About four years ago we made one big goof," one of the students shouted back.

"If we didn't have a story to tell, I wouldn't be here today," the premier said.

"Fairy tales," came a shout from the audience.

FAIRY TALES

"You have been hearing some fairy tales," the premier said.

At one point, when telling the students that the B.C.P.C. had looked into the Peace River development and that two years ago had advised the water rights branch the commission was not interested in it, the premier said: "If that is not true, I will resign as premier, my friends."

That statement was greeted with cheers and foot stamping.

RUNNING AWAY

Premier Bennett accused Mr. Briggs of "running away from his responsibility as general manager of the power commission," and was booed.

"What about Arizona?" a couple of students shouted.

The premier was holidaying in Arizona at the time of the Sommers conviction.

"Everybody in this province can have a holiday. When the premier goes away everybody wants him," Mr. Bennett said.

The premier started to explain his budget but was stopped when a student shouted:

"Was Sommers the accountant?"

THIS IS TRUTH

"This is the truth," Mr. Bennett said.

"Oh! Oh! Oh!" the audience cried.

Effigy Dangles from Tree

Long before Premier Bennett arrived at Victoria College to make a noon speech, students were warmed up for a stormy meeting. They hanged the premier in effigy from a tree in the college grounds in the morning and again, from a balcony, as he was speaking. — (Colonist photos by Jim Ryan.)

One student, Russell Chambers, jumped to the platform to study the budget at the premier's invitation. Only a handful admitted they had ever read a budget.

"I am here to state the facts as I know them. If you set up a committee, I would be glad to see you in my office at any time to make any information available," Premier Bennett told the students.

At the conclusion of his speech the premier waved to the students in much the same manner as a prize-fighter and he received more applause than boos, although both were still fairly well distributed.

A-Plane Fire Kills Pilot

LAKE CHARLES, La. (AP) — The commander of a B-47 bomber carrying a nuclear weapon was killed Wednesday and the navigator injured when an explosion started a fire on the aircraft at nearby Chennault Air Force Base. The fire apparently started when a rocket assist takeoff bottle exploded. The explosion came while the plane was parked on the flight line.

The co-pilot was unhurt. The blaze aboard the plane was extinguished a few minutes after the explosion.

Strategic Air Command at Washington confirmed the plane was carrying a nuclear weapon, but said there was no danger from explosion or radiation.

Letters to the Editor

On What Terms?

I venture to state that when the voters go to the polls shortly not one person in Saanich knows what is involved by unity with the city. We are requested to vote on amalgamation without knowing precisely what benefit is going to accrue (if any) by so doing.

What representation will be allowed Saanich on a unified council? I maintain the city with its large number of service and social organizations could elect the entire council. By this we could be absorbed, instead of being unified.

Also, the commission in its report states that no dismissal of the present staffs will be necessary. This is a very important point. To do so would imply that the council had been over-generous with the taxpayers' money. If no reduction takes place, which I maintain is not possible, wherein is the advantage of amalgamation?

We have no information on what a combined municipal hall would cost, or on how the same would be apportioned. On this the ratepayers should be given the fullest information; otherwise to vote approval on the referendum, as phrased would be like giving the unified council the go-ahead signal with a blank cheque.

Let us do the negotiation on union of the municipalities now, not after voting for or against this.

A. E. HORNER.

Inflation Evils

Current correspondence inclines us to see inflation as a moral issue. Without this view, there seems little prospect of a change. If inflation will eventually reduce our dollar to a minimum, we can be sure it is evil. What are the children of tomorrow to do when the legacy of today confronts them? They will know this generation has failed with all its chrome.

If we rob the butcher, the baker, the candlestick maker we are apprehended and called to account but if, through inflation, we rob the dollar of its value what happens to us? Is the one any more reprehensible than the other?

Inflation is a moral issue. Its cure lies in man himself. He is weighed in the balance and found wanting. Maybe he will eat grass, too! A policy of "my profit right or wrong" is indefensible.

ALAN LESLIE GREIG.

1141 Fort Street.

Fear Complex

It is discouraging to us who favor amalgamation to see our adversaries always harping on fear: fear of higher taxes, fear of downtown cliques, fear of being outnumbered, fear of the simple unknown. It is so easy to play on people's fears.

It is much harder to persuade the people to put their faith in the best brains we can find. I know that a person so disposed can point to mistakes on the part of even the experts. Notwithstanding, I am just as certain that the experts make fewer mistakes than the rest of us. And so I have some faith in them.

Now it happens that the experts have three times recently told Victoria municipalities that it will be to our general advantage to unite. No amount of ingenious fear talk is going to persuade me that they are wrong. They are too unanimous and too respected for that.

Yes, I do admit that the terms of union need careful negotiation. That is why I am doing everything possible to have the final referendum take place a year from now, after the contract is negotiated and not before it.

So let me say to your fearful correspondents that I too fear higher taxes and downtown cliques. But I also know that there is only one certain sure way to escape them. It is to choose with care those who represent us in council, and put our faith in the best brains in the business.

CHARLES M. NELLES.

Homeland Spurned

We hear a great many people (but not everyone) speak enthusiastically of the Communist government of China these days, who urge UN recognition of that regime, and by Canada, too. Do they remember that thousands of Chinese soldiers (North Koreans, too) taken prisoner in Korea, refused to go home?

(Mrs.) A. COLCLOUGH.

Let's Be Consistent

It think it is reasonable to assume that most of the young people aged 18 to 21 years indulge in alcoholic beverages at some time or other. I think it is also correct to assume that most young people are basically decent, worthwhile individuals. On the basis of these two assumptions, I must conclude that few minors brought before a magistrate on the charge of consuming liquor are of the kind described in your editorial of Nov. 22. Let me say that perhaps 10 per cent answer to that description.

If most young persons are generally law-abiding then why do they drink in defiance of the law? The answer is simple: they are being treated like small children at an age when they are fully capable of thinking for themselves.

The only solution to this problem is to lower the legal age for the consumption of alcohol. If the majority of youth desires the privilege to drink liquor, it should be permitted to do so.

Suppression of the popular will is not compatible with the spirit of democracy. Perhaps it would be fitting to put a relevant plebiscite before the youth of this province who are permitted to vote, so that they may decide for themselves.

I think this whole matter is one of consistency. If young persons are expected to bear arms in time of war, to support themselves when no longer attending school, and to vote in provincial elections, then to be consistent society must grant them the privileges that are enjoyed by other, but older, responsible individuals.

VICTOR D. HARRISON.

809 Linden Avenue.

Smug Neighbors

While listening to the amalgamation debate in Central Junior High, it occurred to me that if, by some magical wand, an immense wall or barrier suddenly rose at the entire boundary line separating Victoria from all outlying municipalities, and thus completely deprived those municipalities for all time from using the enviable Victoria facilities such as our harbor, our churches, parliament buildings, hotels, shopping centre, business and employment opportunities, just how smug, independent and prosperous would the residents of Saanich, Oak Bay and Esquimalt feel?

I say this in all sincerity, keeping in mind the fact that Victoria too would then suffer because it would lose the material and spiritual aid of its good neighbors. But who would suffer the most?

Gordon Campbell used such grossly misleading comparative figures when forecasting the tax structure of amalgamated Victoria, that it was evident he used debate tactics which should be permissible only in entertainment topics and not on serious matters such as amalgamation.

Councillor Passmore, because of his burning desire for autonomy, forgot in his reasoning that, if he is a truly capable and sincere man there is nothing to stop him from sitting on council for amalgamated Victoria or even of becoming its mayor.

Self-preservation is a natural instinct, but as animals and human beings mature they do not hesitate to become part of a bigger world.

The self-centred reasons of a few must not impede the progress of a community. In union there is strength; and time marches on.

Arbitration Urged

Farmers Demand Strike Protection

The B.C. Federation of Agriculture called strongly yesterday for compulsory arbitration of labor disputes affecting perishable products.

In a convention at the Empress Hotel, the federation voted almost solidly in favor of a resolution asking the provincial government to pass legislation requiring such disputes to be arbitrated by a Supreme Court judge if conciliation fails.

The resolution, submitted by the B.C. Fruit Growers' Association, said the perishable agricultural products industry, with a limited harvesting and processing season, could suffer severely under a labor tie-up.

In its final session yesterday afternoon, the federation passed a resolution submitted by the South Saanich Farmers' Institute calling for action against the sale of perishable farm products as "loss leaders"—goods sold below cost to attract customers.

The resolution asked the provincial government to "seek some way or means to discourage and prevent the use of 'loss leaders' on perishable farm products, either by enforcing present existing legislation or, if this is not adequate, by enacting new laws that will make it illegal."

If a chain store used soap as a loss leader, one delegate said, competitors could put it away until things were back to normal, but they couldn't put away perishable products.

Public to Pay Eventually

Rate Hike Hurts Shippers

By HARRY YOUNG
Colonist Business Editor

Big shippers of B.C. primary industries will be the chief sufferers from the 17-per-cent freight rate increase approved by the federal government yesterday.

Local lumber shippers say it will affect them.

petitive position for lumber and plywood in the Prairie market, and shipyards and other users of heavy materials imported from the east expect their delivery prices to go, up "perceptibly."

In the consumer goods line, the increase will show up less sharply, but as one wholesale grocery firm said: "Eventually the extra cost will be passed on."

A representative of local motor dealers said he expected the delivered price of Canadian cars to increase by probably $30 a unit.

"But we have not yet heard from the manufacturers as to how the extra freight costs will be handled," he said.

Heavy appliances manufactured in eastern Canada will also cost more.

All local traders were pleased that a strike has been averted. They said a rail strike in December would have been disastrous to everyone.

"It would have completely messed up the movement of Christmas presents for one thing," said a 700-block Yates Street merchant.

Only bright spot in the sad story is that higher freight rates encourage national manufacturers to decentralize by setting up local assembly and processing plants to beat high trans-continental freight rates.

In recent months, leading eastern brewing firms have acquired breweries in British Columbia because they were unable to ship their own products to the Pacific coast and compete on level terms with local breweries.

Police May Summon Private Ambulance

Most of the ambulance calls now handled by city police patrol wagon may be handled next year by a private ambulance service.

The city police commission decided yesterday to consider making arrangements with the private service when budgeting in the spring.

Commissioner W. J. Hamilton said the company had offered to give preference to police emergency calls at $10 a call, collecting if possible from the person served. A real ambulance would be better equipped than the police wagon, he said.

City to Get More Police

The city police force of 74 uniformed men will be strengthened by another three, the police commission decided yesterday.

The decision was made as the result of a long and detailed study of organization of the force by Commissioners W. J. Hamilton and Gordon Carter.

They reported that in the best of circumstances, in an emergency the desk sergeant will be able to handle five telephones, the radio and any business at the desk.

The three additional men, they said, would enable one man to act as jailer at all times and assist the desk sergeant.

"Last night a minister came to see a man in jail," Commissioner Hamilton said, in illustration, "but the sergeant was alone and couldn't leave the desk, so he couldn't see him."

"What would happen if there was a riot or a fight in the jail?"

Also to improve the efficiency of the force, the commission voted to promote Sgt. Brooke Douglass to acting traffic inspector.

Sgt. Douglass, trained in traffic control, will be able to direct more effectively use of traffic policemen, Commissioner Hamilton said.

B.C. Electric Does Its Best

Unsightly Wiring Being Concealed

The B.C. Electric Company agreed yesterday with a city suggestion that poles and wiring should be placed at the rear of properties when practicable instead of along streets.

Mark Trueman, Vancouver Island operations manager, said the company was following that policy, particularly in new subdivisions. He pointed out, however, that Victoria has few lanes.

Mr. Trueman also said that boulevard trees had to be trimmed away from power lines to avoid power failures, but the company was "very anxious to avoid tree trimming to the point of destroying the appearance of trees in the city."

Stroller Stumbles On Relics

HALIFAX (CP)—A young Halifax geologist says a casual stroll along a beach in southwestern Nova Scotia last summer led to the discovery of reptile fossils believed to be 150,000,000 years old.

William F. Take, 28, a staff geologist with the Nova Scotia Museum of Science, said he was walking along the shore in Kings County when he noticed what he figured was a big tooth half-buried in the sand. The find was sent to paleontologist Dr. Donald Baird of Princeton University who confirmed that it was a relic of some prehistoric creature.

More fragments were dug up from the sandy red soil and Dr. Baird visited the site last week.

He said the discovery is unprecedented in eastern North America. In Canada fossils of this type have been found only in Alberta and Saskatchewan.

So far about 20 fragments have been found, including teeth, armored fish scales, pelvis particles, skull fragments and some unidentified bones.

7 Silicosis Claim by Widow

$20,000 Sought

VANCOUVER (CP) — Mrs. Pearl Murray of Zeballos has asked the provincial government for permission to sue the Workmen's Compensation

Board for $20,000, it was learned yesterday.

Mrs. Murray, 37, claims her miner husband died of silicosis.

The board denied that silicosis was the cause of his death and has refused her claim, although it paid Mr.

VANCOUVER (CP) — The president of the British Columbia Electric Company has accused H. Lee Briggs of an "unprovoked attack" on his company and officers, calculated to undermine "public confidence" in the company and its management.

A. E. (Dad) Grauer was replying to an "open letter" from Mr. Briggs, former general manager of the publicly owned B.C. Power Commission, in which Mr. Briggs warned Mr. Grauer that remarks made against him may be dangerous and that he wanted a public apology.

Mr. Grauer made no apology in his reply yesterday.

Royals Finally Find Range, Blast Hapless Cougars, 11-3

Manager-coach Pat Egan of the Victoria Cougars didn't know what to do with the four players he had waiting a chance to get into the line-up before last night's game at New Westminster.

happened to his club in the Royal City, two or three of them will likely get into strip here Saturday night against Seattle.

The Royals, who must have reached their lowest state here Tuesday night, finally erupted and when the scorekeeper had Victoria hopes were ended at 3:23 of the third period when Hugh Barlow scored on a power play to leave the Cougars trailing by four goals.

Opening up in an effort to get back into the game, the Cougars got caught in a deluge as the goal hungry Royals whipped five more goals past Pelletier between 12:31 and 18:32, just missing the league record of five goals in five minutes and 20 seconds, set Feb. 3, 1953, by Edmonton Flyers against Victoria Cougars.

RIMSTAD GETS FIRST

In between rookie-defence-man Dave Rimstad got his first goal of the season for the Cougars, making it six goals in less than six minutes for both clubs.

In addition to Boyer, rookie Gene Urbano and Arnie Schmautz each got three points for the Royals and every player in the starting line-up with the exception of goalkeeper Don Campbell got at least one point.

Defeat allowed Spokane Flyers to tie the Cougars for fourth place in the Western Division Hockey League and the win moved Royals within two points of fourth place.

VICTORIA Goal: Pelletier, defence: Ray, Rimstad, Kaur, forward: Ford, White, Anderson, (Buckman, Haworth, Schmautz, Macaulay, Baluk, Nystrom, Boyer.

FAN FARE

By Walt Ditzgen

Richard Bags 600th; But Habs Lose, 5-3

Maurice "Rocket" Richard, still a deadly shot at 37, scored his 600th National Hockey League goal last night—then brushed it off as just another night's work.

The goal, which gave Richard his 24th NHL record, came in a losing cause as New York Rangers stopped the Canadiens, 5-3, at New York, Monday, while Detroit Red Wings downed the Maple Leafs, 5-2.

The grim-faced Rocket showed little signs of emotion as he was pummeled by his teammates. Most Ranger fans gave the Rocket a good hand, but elements of the capacity crowd at Madison Square Garden repeatedly held up play by tossing things at Montreal goalie Jacques Plante and other players.

FONTINATO PENALIZED

With only one minute left in the game, Ranger defence-man Lou Fontinato started an argument with Richard, holding his stick under the Rocket's nose. Fontinato was finally given a misconduct penalty.

Richard, who did not retaliate, said later that Fontinato was accusing him of spearing, and termed the Ranger rear-guard "punchy, just like those people throwing things."

Richard, who previously drew an assist on a goal by Dickie Moore, got his 911th point in league play with the goal; his 1,033rd point in league and playoff play, and his 519th goal in regular-season competition.

RANGERS RALLY

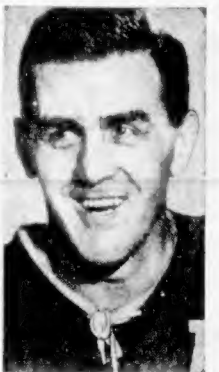

Rangers spoiled Richard's party a little, coming from behind for the victory. Scoring leader Andy Bathgate drew only one assist, but Handy Andy Heberton took up the slack with two goals, his seventh and eighth. Others went to rookie Jim Bartlett, Camille Henry and Red Sullivan.

Jean Beliveau and Moore had given the Canadiens an early 2-0 lead.

At Toronto, Tom McCarthy, Gordie Howe, Jack McIntyre, Len Lunde and Jack McIntyre scored for Detroit in a wild game marked by two outbursts of fighting. Dave Creighton and Ron Stewart tallied for the last-place Leafs, who haven't won a game since Nov. 9.

FANS HOSTILE

A home crowd of 12,619 was hostile towards the Leafs, booing the team as it came out of the dressing room for the third period and hooting whenever a Leaf attack went sour.

First skirmish broke out as the second period ended. Detroit's Forbes Kennedy and Barry Cullen of Toronto exchanged blows and drew majors. Pete Goggin and Leaf centre Billy Harris collided in the third period, and several others got into the act. Goggin and Harris each got two minors.

Stone, Gray Emerge As Strong Favorites

Reg Stone of Trail and Glenn Gray of Edmonton, two battle-tested veterans, emerged Wednesday as co-favorites for top honors in the fourth annual Totem Bonspiel although there were two other unbeaten rinks.

Arden Brown, the real veteran of the group, and a rink entered by Donn Bayley gave Vancouver two of the unbeaten rinks. Brown, who entered his regular club rink, has been the surprise of the bonspiel. Bayley, however, is curling lead rocks and has two well-known Edmonton curlers, Mackie McCallum and Roger Dion, as skip and vice-skip respectively.

CARTMELL BEATEN

Knocked out of the unbeaten ranks in one of yesterday's last draws was Bung Cartmell of Vancouver, still another of the veterans who seem to go on and on. Cartmell was beaten going into the 16th of the Evergreen event, the No. 2 primary, by C. E. Westerman of Regina.

When play was suspended early last night for the annual banquet, the 16th had been reached in the two primary events and the two secondary events and was now moving into the 32s in the No. 4 events.

At least two of the unbeaten rinks will lose their first games today. Gray and Stone will tangle in the eighth of the Evergreen event if they get by their first games today and Bayley and Brown will also meet in the eighth if they win their game in the 16s.

STONE WINS

Stone had his first real trouble of the bonspiel before outscoring Elmer Meier of Vancouver, 13-11, yesterday. The Trail rink trailed by four rocks after six ends. Gray got by Dick Topping of Oliver, 9-7; Bayley edged Lyle Reichert of New Westminster, 6-5, and Brown bested Earl Campbell of Christiana Lake, 9-6.

Yesterday's play eliminated 43 rinks from the original starting field of 176. Among those sent to the sidelines were Elmer Hoffman of Victoria, Dr. H. Bowker of Ladysmith and E. F. Henderson of Youbou. Hoffman and Bowker both won three of eight games while Henderson won two and lost six.

However, Tony Gutoski of Victoria ran his winning streak to six with two victories which gave him a 7-3 record and moved him into the 16s of the Totem event, which he won in 1955, and the Capilano event, secondary to the Evergreen event, Gutoski's only defeat was an extra-end, 8-9 decision to Keith Deacon of New Westminster.

GUTOSKI WINS TWO

Gutoski's rink, which had been scrambling a bit, seemed to settle down yesterday and scored easy wins over highly-regarded Prairie opposition. Gutoski trimmed Ian Auld of Calgary, 12-3, in the Totem event and then polished off Bill Clarke of Regina, 7-3, in the Capilano event.

Gar Taylor of Victoria was left with only one chance when he split his two games yesterday. He stayed alive in the Pacific event, tertiary to the Totem, by defeating G. Brown of Vancouver, 9-5. But a 10-4 trouncing by S. Lennon of Winnipeg in the Capilano event knocked him out of that side of the competition. Taylor has a 5-3 record.

MOORE SHIELINED

Gordie Moore of Victoria also lost one of his two chances when he was knocked out of the Totem event by Jim Hill of Delisle, who took an 11-7 decision. Moore came back to best Harold Worth, former vice-skip for Hill, 8-6, to stay alive.

Ray Chambers' RCN rink and Bob Fuller of Nanaimo won and lost to stay alive in one event. Bill Osborne of Port Alberni reached the 16s of the Totem event with an extra-end, 9-8 win over Bill Morrow of Vancouver and won his first game in the Dogwood event, a No. 4 competition, by outscoring C. Reynolds of Wainwright, 7-5.

Semi-finals in the primary and secondary events will be reached today and all eight finals are scheduled tomorrow.

Parker, Luzzi Get Top Awards

VANCOUVER — Jackie Parker of Edmonton Eskimos, who stars at everything that can be done on a football field, has been named winner of the Schenley Award as the outstanding player in Canadian football for an unprecedented second straight year.

The spindly-looking, shamble-gaited quarterback received the award at a special dinner here last night. Don Luzzi of Calgary Stampeders was named top lineman in the Dominion and Ron Howell of Hamilton Tiger-Cats was chosen the outstanding Canadian in a poll of sportswriters and sportscasters.

Parker, who polled over 75 per cent of the votes in competition with Dick Shatto of Toronto Argonauts, is recognized as one of the outstanding players ever to play the Canadian game. Since coming to the Esks in 1954 after winning All-American honors at Mississippi State, he has been the mainstay of a team that won the Grey Cup in 1954, 55 and 56, and made the western final the past two seasons.

His award includes a perpetual gold trophy, a gold and ebony plaque, a $1,000 bond and a diamond tie-clip. Howell, who won out over Gordie Rowland of Winnipeg Blue Bombers, and Luzzi, who beat Jackie Simpson of Montreal, each receive a plaque, tie-clip and $500.

Luzzi also breezed to victory in his category. The former Villanova University tackle polled 70 per cent of the votes. He was the only player to make both the offensive and defensive western all-star teams.

Stitch Gets Upset Win Over Bahama

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP) — Newcomer Rudell Stich scored an upset 10-round decision over Yama Bahama at the fairgrounds Wednesday night.

Stich, swinging wildly but rocking Bahama when he connected, won his 16th victory. The Louisville welterweight has lost four in his brief career.

Bahama, who came in at 150 pounds against Stich's 145 1/2, absorbed his ninth loss. Bahama has won 51 and had two draws.

Stich's best punches were overhand rights and lefts that seemed to come from the 32 seats. Bahama suffered a deep cut over his left eye in the sixth.

Roy's Thankful Despite ...

'I'll Walk Again,' Campanella Vows

By JOE REICHLER

GLEN COVE, N.Y. (AP)—

Paralyzed Roy Campanella, facing the prospect of spending the remainder of his life in a wheel chair, called himself a lucky man today and said he has many things to be thankful for.

The former star catcher of baseball, who has slimmed down to 185 pounds from 215 following his long siege in hospital as a result of his automobile accident nearly 18 months ago, is back home.

Last year at this time, the week of the U.S. Thanksgiving holiday, he was looking forward to his move to Los Angeles with Brooklyn Dodgers. Now, he puts in hours each day trying to rebuild his muscles in the hope that some day he might be able to walk again.

Campanella admits that day may never come but he hasn't lost hope, and the warm smile that won him so many friends is still on his thinned-down face.

THINKS OF OTT

"I keep telling myself how lucky I've been," he said. "I just keep thanking God I'm alive and I had a house and a family to come back to. Look at poor Mel Ott. He was in an automobile crash-up, too. He's dead. I'm only paralyzed. I said a little prayer for Mel and I sent him a wire, but I guess he never got to read it."

Campanella no longer is burdened by the neck brace he had worn since last January when he underwent an operation on his broken neck. He is still paralyzed from the chest down, however, and he has to be lifted from his bed into the wheel chair.

He has to be dressed and undressed. He is attended by a male nurse. He needs an appliance on his hand to feed himself, to lift objects, to sign his name. He still has no movement in his fingers.

As Campanella was talking, he kept caressing his five-year-old daughter, Princess, who was sitting on his lap. Roy Jr., 10, and Tony, 8, two others of Campanella's six children, were running from room to room, playing a game of tag. Roy's wife, Ruth, was busy in the kitchen.

... His Crippled Condition

Roy's eyes glistened as he watched the activity.

NO TIME FOR BULKING

"Look at the kids," he said. "They're not worried about me being in the wheel chair. 'Daddy's home.' That's all they care about. I have trouble keeping them out of the wheel chair. When I'm in bed, they're all in there with me. I've got no time to sulk with them around."

As Campanella spoke he kept flexing his wrists, flailing his withered arms across his body and raising them over his head. He kept pivoting his shoulders in quarter turns.

"I got to keep doing that to prevent a tightness of the muscles," he said. "I still have no feeling in my legs but I know my insides are all right and I feel strong."

Except for his arms, which are painfully thin, Roy looks robust enough. He visits the Institute for Physical Rehabilitation three days a week and spends five hours a day lifting weights and exercising his muscles.

"I may have to live with this all my life," he said. "But I got to make myself believe otherwise. I got to think it will all come back. Maybe I'm fooling myself but I got to keep fighting and praying. And I know some day, with God's help, I will walk again."

VIEWS of SPORT

By Red Smith

MEXICO CITY—The ostones en su concha were beautifully chilled and subtly flavorful. The huachinanguito couldn't have been many hours out of the water and the changing cloud patterns on the blue peaks beyond the back stretch rivaled the scenic splendors of Senorita Elsa Aguirre, who was feeding her exquisite face among a covey of other movie stars in the Turf Club of Hipodromo de las Americas.

Yanqui horse degenerate mumbled only half aloud. He was counting the profit from his last quiniela and thinking that Mexico's mountain highways with their exciting curves and enchanting vistas might well have been patterned after Senorita Aguirre. Through the public address system came the theatrical accents of Jorge Alarcon, race-caller, journalist, radio broadcaster and gracious caretaker of strays visiting Mexico's handsome horse yard. "Arancón—they're running."

The field of twelve came bustling out of the gate with a potranca alazan—a chestnut fully named Debonair Ann running close to the pace. Debonair Ann is a four-year-old daughter of Grand Slam, and the track handicapper whose comments are printed in the race program had written of her "acaba de sorprender— a chance to surprise." The customers had paid little attention though and when she romped off by herself in the stretch, she paid 267 pesos for 10, or $21.30 for 80 cents. Coupled in the quiniela with Sydney who finished second, she was worth $126.50 for 80 cents.

Calumet of the South

The obvious question is: How long and how often has this been going on? The answer is: Three or four times a week, eleven months a year since the Hipodromo was opened in 1943. It's a dandy little race course with a running strip measuring six and a half furlongs which is being expanded to a mile. Admission is three pesos—24 cents, and although the track has occasionally been jammed with as many as 50,000 spectators, there's usually plenty of strolling, seating, dining and betting space in the tile-roofed, brick-floored stands.

As far as accommodations are concerned, there seems to be no distinctions except for the Turf Club, a private group which even owns its private elevator. The turf clubs of Hollywood and Santa Anita may be larger and more magnificent, but none surpasses this in tasteful luxury, and there is nothing to compare with it at any cavalry post in the East. Painted on a wall of the Turf Club dining room—Mexico City's best, in this book—are the racing colors of Mexico's leading stables. The top farm, Mexico's answer to Calumet in the United States, is Granja San Francisco, owned by Alfonso and Mario Pasquel, brothers of the late Jorge Pasquel whose gold lured all those big league ball players across the border to the Mexican League a few years ago. However, there's a guy named Carlos Gomez who had the stallion Noday, and has been enormously successful racing Noday's offspring here.

Middleground's Son

From a picture window in the Turf Club's lovely lounge (framed like a picture so that even a gringo can tell it's a picture window) one looks out across the infield to a blue backdrop of mountains. The infield is thickly planted with shrubbery, with a lagoon supporting a gaggle of so of geese, swans and affiliated fauna. One can also see horses, which aren't much. They were meant to be good. In any race you'll find the offspring of good ones like Bahram, Priam II, Bernborough, Devil's Thumb, Olympia. Something happened to them, though, and they race now for a claiming price of $3,000 pesos, which is $640. Just as they do in New York, mutual bets hit an average of a million a day, but here it's a million pesos, or $80,000. This kind of business explains why the biggest race, on the day Debonair Ann won a supporting event, had a gross purse of 12,000 pesos or $960.

The favorite was Pan Lopez, a castrado alazan which means chestnut gelding, if you've got to have pictures drawn for you. He is a four-year-old son of Middleground, who won the Kentucky Derby and Belmont Stakes for King Ranch in 1950. King Ranch bred Pan Lopez but sold him down the Rio Grande; last year he won $1,650 and this year $2,775.

"Is a cinch," wrote the program handicapper and Pan Lopez was leading from end to end. It should not be inferred, however, that Mexican handicappers are unlike ours. "Will see contest from afar," the expert wrote about De Music in one race. De Music won at $17.90 for 80 cents.

The Upright Nodarse

One of the jockeys here is a kid named Roger Nodarse who, if memory can be trusted, used to ride in the United States. A few years ago a kid named Nodarse caught Eddie Araro in the stretch. Araro's horse was tucked out and Nodarse had a live one that was going to win easily, but for reasons known only to himself Nodarse took his mount in and slammed Eddie against the fence. Nodarse went on then, displaying a big round tract of tightly stretched whipcord heechees to the enraged Araro. Eddie upped with his whip and slashed. Nodarse won, but he came back to the winner's circle with tears in his eyes as big as oranges. When he took his shower, another jockey reported, you could see a red "whelp" half an inch high. Thousands of miles away from Araro now, Nodarse does quite well at the races, eats all his meals sitting down.

'Bring On Those Tiger-Cats'

Hamilton Tiger-Cats may be seven-point favorites in Saturday's Grey Cup final, but you'd never know it by the confident expressions on the faces of these Winnipeg Blue Bombers at a recent workout. Back row, left to right, are defensive stars Norm Rauhaus, Gordie Rowland and Nick Miller. In front are end Ernie Pitts, halfback Leo Lewis and end Frank Gilliam, standouts in the Bomber offense.—(CP Photo.)

Hamilton Has 'Horses'

Trimble's Ti-Cats Won't Rely on Luck

VANCOUVER—Hamilton Tiger-Cats, carrying a special four-leaf clover and sporting a brand-new offense, arrived in Vancouver yesterday to prepare for Saturday's Grey Cup meeting with Winnipeg Blue Bombers.

Head coach Jim Trimble, who was forever switching of fences in the Big Four playoffs, would say nothing about this latest plan except that "it's a pass-run formation, and we're very excited about it."

"The boys have been working on this for a month, and we'll give the Blue Bombers the first look at it," he added.

The four-leaf clover was a parting gift from a fan, but Trimble said with a grin that he is counting more on quarterback Bernie Faloney and his "horses"—his defensive unit of Pete Neumann, John Varrow, Vince Scott, Dave Suminski and Angelo Mosca.

TICATS FAVORED

Apparently most bettors don't feel that the Ti-Cats will need any help from the four-leaf clover. Latest odds show the Ti-Cats at 75 favorites to repeat last year's victory over the Bombers, and in some quarters a Winnipeg supporter could get $12 eastern money for $5 western. The point spread favored Hamilton by 7½ points.

Sentimentally, this city, of course, is pro west. Saturday's game marks the fifth meeting of the clubs in the Dominion final, and the record stands at 3-1 for Hamilton. Winnipeg's 18-12 victory came in 1955, the first time the west won the cup.

As more fans trickled into Vancouver interest in the game intensified. However, biggest fan onslaught is expected tomorrow, when most of the 15,000 out-of-town visitors are expected. Three special trains, carrying some 2,000 fans, are due then from Calgary, Winnipeg and Edmonton.

POLICE PREPARE

Behind the scenes, city police are making preparations of their own. Special details have been assigned to keep order in the hotel area where Vancouver youths termed by police as "longhairs" kicked up a ruckus when the Grey Cup final was played here in 1955.

Feeling was that the police weren't going to be really tough, but that they were prepared to do anything necessary to prevent trouble from getting started.

While officials met and fans began warming up for the big blowout, the combatants were seeking seclusion to prepare for the upcoming battle.

Bombers, who took Tuesday night off for fun and games with a 1 a.m. curfew, returned to work for a special press conference, then retired to closed practice sessions at Brockton Oval.

BOMBERS IMPROVED

It was expected that odds on the outcome would change several times before kickoff time. The betting fraternity pointed out that the odds would be largely affected by the amount of money wagered by fans arriving today, tomorrow and early Saturday.

However there seemed no doubt that the Ti-Cats would take the field as favorites. Grant and even Trimble agreed that it would work out that way.

Trimble called the Bombers "the best club we have played all year," and called the Winnipeg team considerably stronger through addition of fullback John Varone and quarterback Jim Van Pelt. But the Hamilton mentor said the Tigers have already figured out a few Bomber weaknesses which they'll exploit.

"Van Pelt has a tendency to go for the fences when he gets behind... Herb Grey is the key to their defence... Leo Lewis must be contained."

TRIMBLE CONFIDENT
Trimble felt that the Bombers would be mentally "up" for the game. He said "western crying" after last year's loss had given them the impression they should have won.

"They've said it so often that even the guys who write it are beginning to believe it themselves... All I want to do is convince them it's not so."

Grant claimed the Ti-Cats should be favored because "there is no doubt they are stronger than last year, what with the addition of Milt Campbell and Bernie Faloney's passing game."

"We're not stronger, but we're healthier, and we have tremendous spirit this time. The boys have had two seasons together now, and that makes a lot of difference. We strive for real spirit and we get it."

Tinsley's Tired Of Being Beaten

VANCOUVER (CP)—Big Bud Tinsley wants to win this one—perhaps more than any other player on the Winnipeg Blue Bombers.

For the cigar-smoking lineman, Saturday's tangle with Hamilton Tiger-Cats will be his fourth appearance in a Grey Cup game. On the previous occasions there was only bruises and defeat.

The win is a must for the Bomber captain. It may be his last chance at the cup. Buddy now is 34 and he figures he has just one more season in which to round a decade of professional football. He started with Los Angeles Dons of the defunct All-American League and moved to Winnipeg of the Western Interprovincial Football Union.

ALL-STAR EIGHT TIMES

If Bud doesn't make it this year he may not have another chance. But, he will have a record of eight years out of nine on the WIFU all-star team as consolation.

Tinsley is sure the Bombers can win the cup this time. They lost 13-0 to Toronto in 1950, 12-6 to Hamilton in 1953 and 32-7 to Hamilton last year.

"We're 15 per cent stronger this year, not counting physical condition," he said. "Physically we're miles ahead of last year."

In addition to desire, Tinsley has confidence—especially in Bomber quarterbacks Jim Van Pelt and Kenny Ploen.

"They're real take-charge boys, they command a lot of respect from the linemen," he said. "If they call a play we all have confidence it will work. They're thinking quarterbacks."

Richie Benaud Will Captain Aussie Side

MELBOURNE (Reuters)—All-rounder Richie Benaud will captain Australia against England in the first test match between the two teams starting at Brisbane, Dec. 5, it was announced today.

Australia's team will be chosen from Benaud, Peter Burge, Jim Burke, Alan Davidson, Wally Grout, Neil Harvey, Lindsay Kline, Colin McDonald, Ken Mackay, Ian Meckiff, Norman O'Neill and Bobby Simpson.

O'Neill, Australia's new 21-year-old star, is the only player without test experience.

Benaud, 28, was the star of the 1957-58 Australian tour of South Africa, where he took 106 wickets with his leg-spin bowling and scored 817 runs.

Speaking Briefly

D'Amato Talks Fast; But Says Very Little

Cus D'Amato brought Ingemar Johansson out of seclusion as promised yesterday, but the resulting communique press conference did little to clear up the heavyweight title fight picture.

Johannsson, Sweden's undefeated challenger, said there is a good chance he will meet Patterson in a title bout. But there was no confirmation from the fast-talking D'Amato, who seemed more concerned with taking pot-shots at the International Boxing Club.

Edwin Ahlquist, Johansson's manager, said he intends to come back in January to either settle the question once and for all with D'Amato or begin arrangements for other fights for his challenger.

D'Amato shouted for attention several times, saying he wanted to clarify the situation. "I am dealing in five possible fights for Patterson. This is just one of them."

"I don't want any obstacles thrown in my way by the IBC. We intended to have three title fights last year and we had only one. We have a guarantee of more than $250,000 for a fight in Colorado Springs with one of the five ranking challengers. Beyond that I won't say."

MARLENE STEWART STREIT, Mary Gay, Rae Milligan, Judy Darling, Roma Neundorff and Mrs. J. H. McCarter have been named by the Canadian Ladies' Golf Union as the team to represent Canada in the Commonwealth tournament next June in Britain.

Marg Iwasaki of Vancouver left Toronto by air Tuesday along with five other girls to compete in a series of international swim meets at Hamburg, Germany.

Inco Metals at work in Canada

Inco Copper helps you enjoy modern electrical living

...but three Canadian homes out of five need up-to-date wiring

Support the house you're living in is ten years old or more. The original wiring system did its job well in those days. But can this same wiring system handle the many new appliances you have in 1958? Or in five or ten years from now?

Probably not. Even some new houses are not properly wired to carry the electrical load you need in your home. In fact, more than 3 out of every 5 Canadian homes have inadequate or out-of-date wiring.

If your home is one of these, it means that you're not getting good service from your appliances. They're operating too slowly... using more electricity than they should... and costing you more money. Lights are not as bright as they ought to be. Electric motors operate slowly. Fuses may be blowing. These are sure signs of inadequate wiring. And it could mean that you're playing with fire... because overloaded wiring can help create a fire hazard.

Make sure your home has a safe and up-to-date wiring system. If you spot any of the tell-tale signs, call in an electrical contractor and have him inspect the wiring. He can show you how to enjoy the safety and convenience of modern electrical living.

Inco supplies copper to Canadian companies for the manufacture of heavy duty power cable and the wiring that goes into your home. And you use many other products made from Inco (ORC) Brand Copper every day. For more than half of all the copper produced by Inco is used right here in Canada. Another example of the way Inco metals serve the Canadian industries that serve you.

The 1959 Mercury—moving up.

Today see the all new 20TH anniversary MERCURY

Beneath its true big car classic styling are so many new advances in Mercury design and engineering that you have to see and try the '59 Mercury to know how much better it really is.

Here, in one fine car, is real six-passenger comfort and convenience—with spirited new performance to match.

The '59 Mercury is designed for easier access. Doors are bigger and open wider. Ideal for everyone, but especially for ladies wearing the new flared fashions of today.

And when you settle into a Mercury, you notice a new elegance in interior styling and a new comfort from deep-foam rubber seating, front and back.

The 20th anniversary Mercury brings you a decade step up in quality. And more. The '59 Mercury is so generously proportioned inside that it opens up a whole new world of motoring enjoyment. You can have five join you for a drive—and know all six of you will ride in uncrowded comfort. The new Mercury instrument panel is nine inches further forward for extra roominess. The new Mercury centre tunnel is so low—and seats such a comfortable height—that, like everybody else, middle passengers can now enjoy real stretch-out room.

You'll notice Mercury's greater all-around visibility, too. Sixty percent more windshield area adds safety to your viewing. Thanks to new overlapping windshield-wiper action, all-weather visibility is greatly increased.

On a longer, 126-inch wheelbase*, Mercury brings you all the better, big car features. It's heavier, for a firmer stance and a smoother, road-sure ride. And the '59 Mercury's spirited performance brings to life all you've ever longed for—in a true, six-passenger design.

Compare the 20th anniversary Mercury and you'll know you've moved up. Everyone else will, too!

*126-inch wheelbase. Standard on some models, optional at extra cost on others.

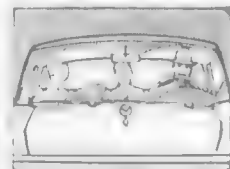

*128 inches on Park Lane Models.

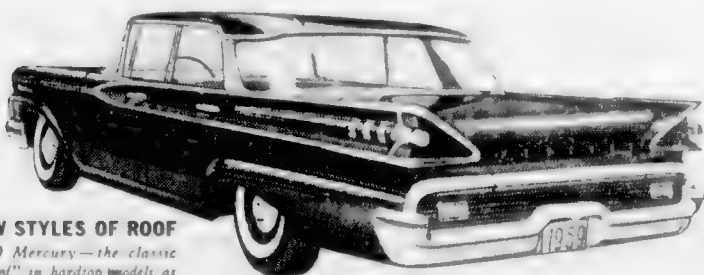

NEW EASE OF ENTRY... because the '59 Mercury has a new, wider, lower, more comfortable door design that offers you more entry room than ever before.

NEW COMFORT INSIDE... especially for the middle passenger. Mercury's new, lower centre console provides more legroom. Seats are a better height—with extra-foam rubber.

NEW OVERLAPPING WIPERS... give you more windshield area for better seeing in any weather. Mercury offers 63% more windshield area for better seeing in any weather.

TWO NEW STYLES OF ROOF
in the 1959 Mercury—the classic "Cruiser Roof" in hardtop models as illustrated above, and at right, the new "Straightaway Roof" on all sedans.

Wall Street Swings Fast Out of Slump

registered their best advance in nearly one year.

The gain eclipsed anything since Nov. 27, 1957, the recovery movement after President Eisenhower's cerebral operation.

The rise started at the opening, followed by a sharp advance in the early trading, and then a lull with reduced volume until late in the session when dealings crossed the mark of Tuesday.

With prices up 2 points in the index, the market moved into a new level of activity, the highest of the previous three sessions.

For a time just before closing, a mild pull-back checked the advance, but some session-long recovery, strong support covering and the market closed on a high note.

Stocks were generally higher, with the Dow Jones industrial average up 1.5 points to 30.18, the S&P 500 up 1.5 points to 100.18, and the NYSE composite up 1.5 points to 100.18.

Among the gains, General Motors was up 1.5 points to 30.18, Ford up 1.5 points to 100.18, and Chrysler up 1.5 points to 100.18.

Other gains included IBM, which was up 1.5 points to 100.18, and American Telephone and Telegraph, which was up 1.5 points to 100.18.

Losses were limited to a few stocks, including United Fruit, which was down 1.5 points to 100.18, and International Paper, which was down 1.5 points to 100.18.

Year Ends with Profit

By HARRY YOUNG
Colonial Business Editor

A halfway loss was turned into a profit by B.C. Forest Products in the fiscal year ending Sept. 30.

The big Vancouver Island morning that its net profit for the year was $718,943 (21 cents a share) against $1,076,024 (33 cents a share) in the previous year.

Chairman E. P. Taylor and president C. D. Dickey Jr. said the second half was much better than the first when a net loss of $350,000 was incurred.

Decline in net profits was due to increased interest charges and depreciation, coupled with the cost of starting the new $15,000,000 pulp mill at Cranford.

Average prices of lumber and plywood products were lower but volume was greater and earnings from these divisions improved with the year's work.

Operating expenses at Cranford in the first six months were about 10 per cent higher than expected, but the pulp mill is expected to operate at a higher rate of capacity.

However, the mill is not expected to be operated at capacity until later in the year, due to the transportation state of the pulp industry.

The company had 344,700 shares outstanding at Sept. 30, against 322,000 a year earlier.

Request of a change sale in British Columbia is to be held in effect of the Department of Mines in Victoria to day.

Over 2,000,000 acres of land in various interesting spots east of the Rockies are being put up in over 30 parcels. Most of the parcels represent prospects for over 100,000 acres each.

Businessmen from the oil and gas capitals of Canada and the United States are gathering in Victoria for the sale.

Patrick Mulcahy, deputy minister of mines, said yesterday that many companies who had not so far been attracted to this province were making inquiries.

Some sealed tenders have already been received but the majority will be held back until the representatives arrive for the sale, which starts at 2 p.m.

Most of the parcels are in the far north of the province near Fort Nelson, where no oil discoveries have been made while others are in the Lorne Mountain area, currently labeled as "hot."

It is in this area south of Cranford that the company expects to find oil and gas.

The northeastern part of the province, where the company has been working for some time, has been labeled as "hot."

George Maycock, manager of the oil and gas sale, said the company has been working for some time in the area.

He said the company has been working for some time in the area.

Women Do Push-Ups To Push Up Red Output

MOSCOW—Women workers in Moscow have setting up breaks instead of coffee breaks. During the pauses in their day's occupation, 400,000 women workers have been pushed into doing push-ups, supervised by 460 physical education instructors. The motive: a set-up a day steps up Soviet output.

Brown Eggs Tops

TORONTO (CP)—If house wives would buy more brown eggs, there might be fewer neuritic symptoms, claim —say the Canadian Association of Neurologists, which is now in session in a public hall, prefers white-chested eggs in buying more of the brown.

The preference for white eggs, according to neurologists, is based on the fact that brown eggs are heavier and contain more yolk.

SMALLER HENS

Small brown hens lay the white-shelled eggs are laid by a smaller breed of hen than the brown-shelled variety, said Mrs. Bucknam. "The smaller hen is more difficult to rear, more highly strung, and when its laying days are over, a poorer specimen to sell as meat."

Eggs in brown shells are just as good as eggs in white shells and there is no difference in nutritional value.

If the public will buy brown eggs, the farmers' job will be easier, which could eventually be reflected in a lower price.

KEEPING COOL

The CAC is also urging retail stores to keep eggs cool.
"With winter approaching, it is likely that eggs will be stored unrefrigerated in overheated stores," said Mrs. Bucknam, "and under these conditions they can deteriorate fast."

ties give you a perfect balance of both softness and strength. Scotties are better for handkerchief use or cosmetic removal because they really hold together.

THRIFTY FAMILY PACK—You get 400 quality tissues in each large family pack of Scotties. In pink, yellow or white—Scotties are softer and stronger . . . today's best value in facial tissues.

SOFTER—You'll welcome Scotties' softness for sneezy colds or for removing cosmetics.
Scotties are gentle and kind to the tenderest skin.

Three of Faculty Threaten to Quit

WINDYBAY, B.C. — Three teachers of the Windy Bay school have threatened to resign in protest over the dismissal of a teacher.

The teachers are H. H. Boyd, principal, and two other teachers. They are protesting the dismissal of a teacher who was accused of having a relationship with a student.

Beware Of Phony "Bargains"

Is it possible that you actually pay more for that "bargain" than the regular price? A new consumer report in December Reader's Digest shows how many bargains really are on TV sets, jewelry, appliances, cosmetics and other products.

WE "IRONED OUT"

THIS

Prepared and Packed in the Niagara District

Although babies are born with a reserve store of iron, it is depleted for additional iron soon arises. Most babies get their iron from starting cereals. Our problem was how to provide iron in a form that could be easily absorbed by infants. After years of research, we have developed a new cereal, one that can be absorbed more easily than any other. It also contains the iron that is needed to put the iron to work for baby's health.

All Gerber Baby Foods are prepared with exacting care to insure the utmost in nourishment and quality. For when it comes to babies, mothers and Gerber agree, it's quality first.

"NEVER PAY 70¢ AGAIN" SAY HOUSEWIVES AFTER TASTING NEW MARGARINE

Hundreds of women taste-tested completely new, completely different Mayflower Margarine and the great majority of them agreed:
"You can't tell the difference between Mayflower and the high-priced spread."

Like the 70¢ spread,
Mayflower is sold only under refrigeration.
Look for it in the refrigerated counter at your grocer's today!

At last! The taste that's been missing in margarine—

mayflower

has real natural taste

TRY THIS TASTE TEST FOR YOURSELF! Spread a piece of toast with completely new, completely different Mayflower and another with the "high-priced" spread. Taste them both. See if you don't agree with hundreds of other housewives who couldn't tell the difference between Mayflower and the "high-priced" spread.

TRY MAYFLOWER ANY WAY YOU LIKE—on fresh bread, on muffins or on hot vegetables. The answer is always the same—Mayflower has the taste that's been missing in margarine—real natural taste!

YOU'LL FIND MAYFLOWER SUPERIOR IN MANY WAYS. It gives your family the same nourishing quality all year round. It stays fresh longer. It spreads smoother and easier.

SO WHY PAY 70¢ EVER AGAIN for a table spread, when you can enjoy Mayflower's real natural taste for so much less.

'Quickie' Divorce Traps Peer

LONDON — The Marquess of Milford Haven, who has been in the post for only a few days, has been the first case of a "quickie" divorce.

Viscountess Milford Haven, the Duke of Edinburgh's first cousin, has been divorced.

Mrs. Milford Haven, who was married to the Marquess in 1947, has been divorced by the Marquess.

The divorce was granted by the High Court in London.

The Marquess, who is 54, has been married to the Viscountess for 11 years.

The divorce was granted on the grounds of irreconcilable differences.

Anglo-Italian Project

Watched by Italian and British officials, Enrico Mattei, president of Italian agency for hydrocarbons, throws symbolic parchment into concrete funnel as construction of Italy's first nuclear power station begins at Latina. The $56,000,000 project, to be completed by 1962, is being built by a British nuclear power plant company.

Obituaries

Cullen Funeral Set for Today

Funeral services for former city school teacher and principal Alfred Cullen will be held at 3:15 p.m. today in St. Mark's Church, Boleskin Road. He was 77.

Born in England, Mr. Cullen came to Victoria in 1927. He taught at Cloverdale School and later became principal of Cedar Hill School. At the time of his death he was principal of the Retarded Children's School, West Saanich Road.

He was rector's warden of St. Mark's Church, and also its choirmaster. He was a life member of the Parent-Teacher Association.

Surviving are the widow, Minnie Ethel, at home, 3143 Shelbourne Street; two daughters, Peggy, Long Beach, Calif., and Mrs. C. (Norah) Wagget, Victoria; a son, James, White Rock; and two grandchildren; also a brother, Richard, Victoria.

Charles Richardson

Funeral services will be held at 2:30 p.m. today in Knox Presbyterian Church, Sooke, for Charles Richardson, resident of Sooke for 47 years. He died Monday at the age of 76.

Born in England, he was one of the original members of Richardson Bros., building contractors, and an elder of Knox Presbyterian Church, Sooke.

Surviving are the widow, Florence, at home, Sooke Road; three sisters and a brother in England; three nieces, Mrs. J. (Nellie) Storey, Victoria; Mrs. W. (Mollie) Mawhinney, Seattle, and Mrs. A. (Hilda) Ryttersgaard, Vancouver; two nephews, G. B. Gamble, Qualicum Beach, and Frank Richardson, Sooke.

William Kirkbride

William H. Kirkbride, a former resident of Victoria and member of the Union Club here for many years, died at his home in Santa Barbara, Calif., Nov. 14.

A former writer, magazine publisher, cotton grower in South Carolina and president of the Pacific Coast Construction Company in Victoria, Mr. Kirkbride was a direct descendant of Joseph Kirkbride, who accompanied William Penn to America in 1682.

He was born in Philadelphia. Mr. Kirkbride was decorated by King George VI for his work as secretary-treasurer for the British War Relief Society during the Second World War.

He is survived by his widow, Georgiana, and daughter Adele, both of Santa Barbara; two sons, Malcolm, of Atherton, and Ronald, of London, England, and six grandchildren.

Twin Ontario Cities To Vote on Merger

THE LAKEHEAD, Ont. (CP)—The twin cities of Fort William and Port Arthur at the first white settlement dates back to 1678, goes to the polls Monday, Dec. 1, Port Arthur where the first house was built in 1856, gives its verdict a week later, on Dec. 8. Both votes are being held at city elections for mayor, council and other offices.

Question for the voters: "Are you in favor of amalgamating the City of Port Arthur and the City of Fort William as one city?"

Alberta Ponders Help for Debtors

EDMONTON (CP)—The Alberta government is considering legislation dealing with consolidation of debts. Premier Manning said Tuesday.

However, he gave no clues what the government had in mind while speaking during consideration of a resolution by delegates at the Alberta Social Credit League annual convention.

The approved resolution asked that the government consider consolidation of debt legislation "whereby the debtor can be protected, and that he be allowed, with the help of a court, to make a new agreement with his creditors so as to protect his equity in chattels under question."

Prairie Firms Win Contract For B.C. Road

Two Edmonton firms have been awarded a $798,511 contract for construction of a new 26.6-mile section of the Stewart-Cassiar Road, south of Dease Lake.

B.C. highways department announced yesterday the contract has been awarded jointly to New West Construction Co. Ltd., and George Ludwig Ltd. The northern road is being shared on a 50-50 cost basis by the federal northern affairs department and the B.C. department of mines.

Section of the road involved lies between the Tanizilla and Stikine Rivers.

Halmon Delisted

TORONTO (CP)—The Toronto Stock Exchange announced Tuesday that trading in shares of Halmon Mining and Processing Ltd. has been suspended. An exchange notice said the shares are suspended pending "clarification by the company of certain items in its financial statements accompanying a filing statement submitted to the exchange."

New Industrial Map Now on Sale at $1

New 1958 edition of the composite industrial map of the metropolitan area of the Lower Mainland was released by the Minister of Industrial Development, Trade and Commerce Robert Bonner this week.

It may be obtained for $1 by writing to that department at the legislative buildings.

The map indicates the occupied, zoned and potential heavy and light industrial lands in Vancouver city and 11 surrounding municipalities. It comprises an area from North Vancouver to Port Couquiltam and also shows main highways, railway lines, natural gas line, oil pipeline and other facilities serving the area.

Ocean-Going Note Gets Distant Reply

NEW YORK (AP)—A glass ship launched by 10-year-old Peter Iseman of Manhattan has sailed the Atlantic Ocean and brought him a reply from Paris.

While vacationing at Martha's Vineyard, Mass., last Aug. 19, Peter wrote a note with his name, address, age and place and time of launching, and placed it in an empty bottle.

At high tide, he cast the bottle into the surf and forgot about it—until last Wednesday, when a letter postmarked Paris arrived at his home.

The letter was from Mrs. Dixon Stanton. She and her husband, a soldier stationed in France, had found the bottle while weekending in Normandy. They are from New York, too.

Five Ontario Plants

GM Strike Voted

TORONTO (CP)—General Motors of Canada workers have voted to strike unless their wage increase demands are met in the five GM Ontario plants, it was announced Tuesday.

The union has turned down company offer of a 13.5 cent an-hour package deal spread over three years. It seeks wage increases of 30.5 cents an hour and fringe benefits and wants a one-year contract.

U.S. Markets Close

NEW YORK (AP)—All U.S. stock and commodity exchanges will be closed Thursday, Thanksgiving Day.

$5,000 DOWN

Young widow, with three children, has moved from Nova Scotia to Victoria because she feels this city is a wonderful place to bring up her family. There is $5,000 in insurance money available as a down payment on a 3-bedroom home in a good location. The monthly payments on the house would not be more than $40 per month. If your house has a fireplace, and a room could be put in the basement, it will be considered. Please call me and tell me about your house.
